Admissions, NUS Enterprise
NUS Overseas College (NOC) Programme

To whom is concerned,

I would like to recommend Ching Jia Rong for admission into the NUS Overseas College (NOC) Programme. Jia Rong was an intern of mine from the period May 2021 - August 2021 at our startup, Moaah as a Web Developer intern. As an intern, he was in charge of building upon our existing web application comprising various technological stack. From the first day in, he quickly familiarized himself with the tech stack used, of which several were new to him. One of them was the different AWS web services that we utilized as a company. Nevertheless, he learnt and made sense of our entire ecosystem quickly and applied them appropriately.

During his time as an intern, I have noticed several exceptional attributes and qualities that he possesses. First, he takes ownership and pride in his daily work. He would initiate additional meetings on top of the daily ones that we have to clarify certain pain points and touch on processes which can be improved upon. Moreover, he would take time outside of designated working hours to understand and figure out the next steps and the technology he will be utilizing down the line. This positive can-do attitude and resourcefulness of his influenced other interns to emulate his work ethic as well.

Second, he is an independent and well-liked team player. During the internship period, it was largely a work-from-home situation due to the pandemic. Despite that, he was on task, and gave frequent updates on the work he has accomplished for the day. A more subtle point that I also noticed was that he would give guidance and tips to other interns interning in our company as well. This was one of the reasons why the team had a relationship that was symbiotic.

From my interaction with Jia Rong, he is someone who is sociable, cheerful, and fun to be around. Notwithstanding, He could switch between the different modes when the circumstances call for it and was serious when it comes to work. With his abovementioned attributes, I believe he is someone you will want in your team and well suited to take part in the NUS Overseas College (NOC) Programme.

Yours sincerely,
